HOUSE AFFIRMS DEATH FOR HUB LOOP PROJECT IN NEW 110 TO 64 VOTE

The House today refused to reconsider its action in killing the $83,000,000 highway bill. The vote, taken by the call of the yeas and nays, showed 110 against and 64 for reconsideration.

Representative Thomas F. Donohue, D-N.Y., said he was disappointed, charged the whole day was wasted and he would have changed a "heckle" due him into a "speech" if he had the chance.

He was supported by Representative Henry L. Shattuck, D-Mich., who said the bill was "a good bill" and "a good investment in order to offset inflation."

HUGS $83,000,000 IN LAWRENCE BANK

Lawrence, April 26.—Safe houses, Stashley Cohns, Essex St. street

For the Boston Evening American, Franklin P. Webber, landlord of the East Boston house in which Robert Barabazky and Albert Deshon, the alleged Coughlin slayers, were captured, paid the following sum of how he bought his house and had the police to arrest them:

BY FRANKLIN P. WEBBER
(As told to Jeanne Smith, Staff Reporter.)

This is the real story of how Sambarazky and Deshon were captured in my lodging house, at 56 Paris street, one of six houses on the same side of the street.

"The police did not find the boys' names through our inn list. One of my neighbors and myself called on them and my wife specified them as the phony names. They said to get the police not to call us. We told arrest the boys."

The two boys came to my own house 56 No. 12 Winthrop street, last Saturday night.

They said they were from Newburg, N. Y., and to go to the church.

I took them over to No. 52 Paris street, which is almost opposite to my house.

Maintaining the calm that he distinguished them since the arrest in the window of the East Boston police station, Albert Deshon, Robert Barabazky and gully were taken to the Superior Court today for the murder of Patrolman Frank J. Connelley.

The seventeen-year-old Roxbury boys were ordered to remain in jail for trial by Judge Podick. They were then moved to the Charles street jail. They were taken to court shackled.

The boys were also arraigned on an indictment charging breaking and entering of a residence and on a charge of carrying a dangerous weapon. They were alleged to have been committed by the police to the Charles street jail of the others, was indicted for violating the same charges, attempting to break out of the jail and for carrying a dangerous weapon.

When they were in jail, they were taken to court and were

ROMANCE OF YALE LOCK HEIR ENDED BY DIVORCE

FACTORY
GIRL WIFE
AWARDED $35,000

Chicago, April 30 (A.P.)—The romance of an immigrant working girl and the heir of the Yale & Towne Loom Company wealth, which started when they worked side by side in a factory of the latter's father, has ended in the divorce court.

"THROWN OUT."
Dorothy Ravin Towne, a native of Kiev, Russia, obtained the divorce and a property settlement of $25,000 here from J. Meredith Towne on allegations of extreme cruelty. The two were married in Toledo, Ohio, March 13, 1919, when each was 18 years old.

Mrs. Towne enacted for Judge Sabath several stirring scenes in her marital life with Towne. She waved a pistol and demonstrated how she should kill her husband had threatened to kill her. She related that he had beaten her when she refused to go to Mexico with him to get a divorce.

HUB UNION MAN OFFERS AID TO VANDERBILT

New York, April 30 (A.P.).—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., had under consideration today five offers of money to save his $5,000,000 newspaper properties from disaster.

The 32-year-old heir to a good share of the Vanderbilt millions had announced his need of $500,000 within six months because of his family's withdrawal of financial aid. Dudley Field Malone, his attorney, said last night that among five offers of money one was $1,000,000 for purchase of one of Vanderbilt's three newspapers.

He declined to say whether the offer was for the Miami Tab, Los Angeles Illustrated News or the San Francisco Herald. Mr. Vanderbilt also publishes two magazines, the Vanderbilt Farmer and Vanderbilt Weekly.

The father of Walter J. Bond, who served with Vanderbilt in the World War, and J. R. Callahan, a linotype operator, each offered to buy $1,000 worth of stock.

A taxi driver who drove him to town recognized him and offered him his $26 savings.

James R. Martin, who said he was president of Boston Mallers' Union.

No. 1, wired from Brookline his belief union employees of Mr. Vanderbilt would invest.

"Our advertising income is increasing," said Mr. aVanderbilt, "and I am confident another six months will see us out of the woods."

Sale of one of the properties would not necessarily mean dissolution.

BOYS IN TUNNEL AS COPS CAME TO FIND CACHE

One of the greatest surprises received by the police in their investigation of the youthful prisoners, a surprise disclosed with excitement, was the discovery that their quarry had watched the officers search the cache in the Dorchester tunnel. The boys had acted on the theory that the safest place was the most dangerous place.

"Where did you go then to hide?" Capt. Hickey asked.

"To the Dorchester tunnel," was Dedson's smiling answer.

Then it was recalled that the gang had a cache in the tunnel part of the Dorchester tunnel near Dover street.

The police searched the tunnel for $5,000 worth of jewelry and some pistols last Wednesday evening.

"How long were you there?" was the question.

"Until Friday night," was the answer.

"Then you must have been there Wednesday night?"

"Yes, what was the night the cops came in?"

"What, were you there when the officers searched the tunnel?" Dedson nodded. "Yes," he said.

"Where were you?"

"We hid behind the wall, as if to indicate that they had a cache near the roof of the tunnel as a cache."

"Where did you sleep?" he was asked. Again he pointed upward.

CROWD VIEWS SLAYERS ON THEIR WAY TO FACE MUSIC!

DESHON'S FIRST THOUGHTS ARE OF MOTHER

"How my mother!"

This was the first question today of Albert Dedson, held in the Courtroom, as he was led, handcuffed, from the office of Police Sgt. Michael J. Connelley.

In the next breath the black-haired, baby-faced youth protested: "I didn't mean to do it."

His big, staring, brown eyes clouded and his expression of poignant pain spread over his face. He appeared on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"Are you worried?" he was asked. "For not I am," he replied. He swallowed hard and held back his tears.

A curl of hair, a wrisp of jet black, hung down over the boy's left forehead. As he stared off into space, dazed and bewildered, he saw loomed like that of a choir boy.

Robert Sambury, the other boy held in the case, was silent. His mind, busy with the question as he stepped from the superintendent's office and passed for his picture.

The boys were taken from Field's Corner Jail by Special Officers Robinson and Leary of station No. 11 to the office of Superintendent Crowley.

Boys Read Sleuth Yarns as They Dodged Police

Had a keen detective story magazine, a huge pile of newspapers, dating back to last Saturday and carrying the headlines emboldening the search for the Comeau slayers, were the most noticeable articles in the East Boston room of young Dedson and Dedson.

The bed was trussed and the clothing tossed to disarray. Spread out on the bed was a late edition of a Thursday evening newspaper, telling of the Bedford search by an armed posse.

On the bureau was a half-empty quart bottle of milk, half a loaf of dark Italian bread and a few chocolate.

One drawer of the bureau contained four new suits of Summer underwear, a new necktie and a dozen new handkerchiefs.

Another drawer contained several bottles of perfume, a bottle of toilet soap and a bottle of aftershave. All used apparently in treating Dedson's bulletholed wrist and bullet torn ear.

In a third drawer were a number of rusted knives and forks, such as would be found in a camp that was abandoned by no feminine hands.

An old-type photograph was in one corner of the room. Its age was supported by several ancient records.

Chewing gum wrappers, cigarette stubs, cigarette cases and rubbish in general were scattered about the room.

She lived with him for three more years and disappeared for the second time in 1905. Now the elderly gentleman is 47 years old and entering her last year of life.

Mrs. Feltows is about sixty-five years old at the present time, never worked and lived with her husband all her life.

EX-DAY AGENT ON STAND IN RUM TRIAL

Guinn Tells How He Used Threats Against Federal Men in a Raid

Leading from his diary, former Federal Prohibition Agent Hugh W. Guinn testified today in Federal court that he was assisting for liquor law violators in Boston, Baltimore and other places on the night on which the government charges he was participating in liquor landings at swamps.

Guinn, who is on trial on conspiracy charges with ex-police Chief William L. Sullivan, and several others, declared his lawyer was in the room at the time of the raid on the alleged rum running.

By day and night by night with few exceptions, he accounted for his whereabouts during the entire trial, kept for purposes of making reports.

Three nights, he said, he spent with the rum runners living at the beach at Cohasset and Boston. He was in the room at the time of the raid on the alleged rum running.

He placed himself in a Washington street Boston, head 12, 3, 3, when, according to a government witness, he was on the beach.

He declared that he then made a raid on a liquor still in the hotel and thereafter was at a police station about the case until midnight.

THREATENED U. S. MEN.

Facing his own defense today, ex-Chief Guinn asserted the reason he kept his own possession after his removal from office many years ago was to protect himself from the Federal agents when they attempted to interfere with his raid on the rum runners.

Guinn testified: "After we had the ambulance loaded with the seized liquor, these two men came around and said, 'We are Federal officers and we are going to take charge.'"

DEFIED DRY MEN.

"I said, 'How do I know you are Federal men? Have you got any badges?' They said, 'Yes, I told them I had a warrant for the raid and I was going ahead with it.'"

"One of them said, 'We're going to go ahead with this. We got some fine liquor.'"

The Federal men then told Guinn they could get warrants in Boston to seize the liquor.

Guinn testified, "I go ahead and try it, that I had authority to remove the rum from my room, and told them they knew what to do and I meant just that."

NIGHT CLUB ACT NOW IS LAW

In the presence of a group of women, including temperance, welfare and social workers, Governor Tuttle today attached his signature to the bill to control night clubs and road houses.

The bill empowers the commissioner of public safety to approve or revoke licenses for road houses in towns of less than 2,500 registered voters.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton of Cambridge, head of the women's division of the Anti-Saloon League, congratulated the Governor, adding it was through his efforts in pointing out the evils of the road houses that the bill was passed.

DEATH THREATS GO TO CHICAGO PROSECUTOR

Gangs Also Menace His Children, Says Crowe, Granted Probe

Chicago, April 29 (A.P.)—An order for the issuance of a special grand jury to investigate the slaying of William H. McLaughlin, young assistant state's attorney, and all other gang killings, and crime conditions in Chicago, is being issued by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, today by William V. Renshaw, acting chief justice of the Criminal Court.

Crowe presented a petition revealing that threats had been made against his life, to kidnap his children and to bomb his home.

Twelve months have recorded in Chicago and Cook County an increasing number of gang murders, the prosecutor said in his petition. "The combination of high speed automobiles, sawed-off shotguns and high-powered rifles operated in quick succession, and immediately secure has produced in this community a reign of terror."

More recently these vicious gangsters have brought conditions to such a point that they have repeatedly made threats upon the life of the state's attorney and, much more terrible to contemplate, they have threatened to kidnap and kill the children of the state's attorney and bomb his home.

ATTORNEY INNOCENT IN ACCIDENT CASE

Attorney John J. Monagle of Chatham, arraigned in the Malden District Court today on a charge of threats to extort money from the 84th of Calhoun street, threat, was discharged by Judge Britton.

Monagle alleged that after an auto accident on the Fall River in which he was concerned, Monagle tried to get $500 from him. The court declared that Monagle had a right to attempt settlement and that the case was not of a criminal nature.

MINE STRIKE LOOMS IN ENGLAND TODAY; HIT WAGE

London, April 29 (I.N.S.)—The miners' federation executive committee is reliably reported to have rejected the operators' offer of a new minimum wage scale. This makes the hopes of averting a coal strike at midnight almost negligible.

The collieries were called into session to consider the situation. Orders have already gone forth to the miners in some districts to cease work at 10 p. m. unless advised of a settlement.

500 BALD HEADS FACING CONVENTION BATTLE

Bridgeport, Ct., April 29 (A.P.)—Thirty-seven states will send prominent bald heads, about five hundred of them, to this city on May 19. It will be the annual convention of the Bald Head Club of America and Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut will be guest of honor.

Although the convention is two weeks away, rumblings of a convention battle are being heard. It is reported that someone will suggest the founding of a chair in a college devoted to hair research, the purpose of which will be to study baldness and its cure. Unrestrained opposition already has been voiced to this radical departure from the aims of the club.

Under the charter of the society a man must have three inches of bald pate plus $1 to become a member.

The Letters of Queen Victoria

Human Appeal in Private Documents of Greatest Woman Ruler

MARY TODD LINCOLN
Queen Victoria writes a letter of sympathy to the widow of the martyred President. From a Civil War time photo by Brady.

"I would as soon clasp the poorest widow in the land to my heart, if she had truly loved her husband and felt for me, as I would a Queen."

In these words does a great woman monarch lay bare her great democratic heart in today's installment of "The Letters of Queen Victoria," which the Boston Evening American is publishing daily with the approval and approbation of King George of England.

Herself still heart-broken, after three years, over the loss of her beloved husband, Prince Consort Albert, Queen Victoria was utterly shocked by the assassination of President Lincoln, who had moved to "pour balm into the wounded heart" of the martyred President, who is to her a perfect stranger.

This, too, at a time when relations between Great Britain and the United States have reached such an acute stage over the depredations of Confederate cruisers, built and equipped in British ports, that Parliament is discussing measures for the defense of Canada in the event of another war with America.

Published by permission of His Majesty King George V., through arrangement with Longmans, Green & Co., of New York. Copyright in Canada.

Heart of the People

Port Russell to Queen Victoria.
Penguin Office, 27th April, 1865.
—Lord Russell presents his humble duty to your Majesty: It has been suggested that a very good letter would be produced in illustrating the feelings of the United States, if your Majesty would deign to write to Mrs. Lincoln privately, endeavoring with her on her benevolent but so cruel a crime.

(Submitted to Queen Victoria.)
Oxford, 27th April, 1865.

My Dear Stanley—The murder of the President, who was the Ministry not only of eloquence at home, but of moderation abroad, so greatly increases the danger to the peace of the world from that quarter that I feel it almost a duty to let you know how much evil might be averted, by a personal expression of sympathy from the Queen.

Towards her personally the affection of the American people, displayed in the passionate enthusiasm with which they received her son, (her Albert Edward, Prince of Wales and future King Edward VII.) Hailed America in 1860 has never abated. In spite of all the differences between the two nations it continues from the deepest part of their character, and survives all political antagonism. The cause has a greater object of household love and veneration than any dynasty that she still is through out the Northern States.

The words of a Prince Minister will be civilly acknowledged by the authorities and the people; they will have no effect on the heart of the people—Goldwin Smith.

"Though a Stranger"

Queen Victoria to Mrs. Lincoln.
OSBORNE, 28th April, 1865.
DEAR MADAM—Though a stranger to you, I cannot remain silent when so terrible a calamity has fallen upon you and your country, and must express my sympathy with you under the shocking
